Computer Occupations: New Applications, New Job Titles		13

You already know that those wonderful machines have become about as common as holiday songs in December. As the first three sections of this article point out, you can hardly avoid computers at home or school—and certainly not at work. The last section looks at the rapid changes taking place in the computer occupations, including those that are declining.

Job Training: Who Needs It and Where They Get It	Thomas Amirault	18

No need to wonder what occupations people with different kinds of training work in. These tables will tell you.

Is a Career in Banking a Good Investment?	Hall Dillon and Douglas Shapiro	32
--	------------------------------------	----

Not all the change is in computers. Some of it's in banks. The industry is going through a shakedown of closings and mergers, but the employment of bank workers is likely to rise between now and 2005. You can bank on it.

A Bi-Monthly Newsletter and Acquisitions List

MARCH - APRIL 1993

THE LIBRARY

The Library now has a wheelchair accessible table which can accommodate two persons in wheelchairs comfortably. Librarians or others who may be interested in the features of this table are invited to visit the MRC Library. Students or researchers who use wheelchairs will now be able to work in a more comfortable environment.

Library users are reminded that the Library has available upon request a subject list, a list of films and videos and a list of journals to which the Library subscribes. Contact the Library for a copy.

The Library also has an extensive collection of newsletters which are stored in files alphabetically by title.

Speaking of newsletters, four which came across my desk recently are:

1. Tourette's Syndrome Association Newsletter.
2. Disability Now. which has an overview of disability issues in Europe.
3. Triumph. published by the Greater Boston Post Polio Information Association.

4. The newest newsletter is Disability Benefits in Brief. This newsletter provides up-to-date information about the social security disability benefits programs.

Contact the Library for information about subscriptions to the above mentioned publications.

THE LITERATURE

The March 1993 issue of the Journal of Developmental & Physical Disabilities contains two articles of note:

Classification of Types of Tardive Dyskinesia in a developmentally disabled population at a public residential facility.

Pharmacotherapy of aggressive behavior in an individual with mental illness and mental retardation.

Career Development Quarterly. March 1993 examines "The Gendered Context of Life: Implications for Women's & Men's Career Life Plans."

David Pfeiffer, Professor at Suffolk University and an MRC Library user, shares with us two co-authored articles:

"The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990: A Compliance Overview" by David Leviton and David Pfeiffer, which appears in The National Civil Review, Spring/Summer 1992 and "Completion of Transitional Living Programs: An Exploratory Study with Implications for Public Policy" by David Pfeiffer and S. Watson.

Jan/Feb 1993 issue of SHHH Journal reveals "What Employers Want to Know about Assistive Technology in the Workplace" and "Why Use Assistive Listening Devices".

"Interactions between mothers and normal hearing or hearing impaired children" is addressed in Volta Review, Winter 1993.

Mainstream, April 1993 has an article on "Personal Assistance Services: The Alternative to Nursing Homes."

Paraplegia News, April 1993 contains information on "Power Chairs."

Two articles of note appear in the EAP Digest (Employee Assistance Program).

"Trend in Stress-Related Workers' Compensation Claims."

"Drug, Alcohol and the ADA."

The March 1993 issue of the Journal of Health & Social Behavior has:

"Monitoring AIDS and Other Rare Population Events: A Network Approach".

"Examining HIV Related Knowledge Among Adults in the U.S."

Archives of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, April 1993 has 3 articles about children with disabilities:

"Traumatic Brain Injury as a Risk Factor for Behavioral Disorders in Children."

"Performance Comparison Among Children Fitted with Myo-electric and Body Powered Hands."

"Rehabilitation Approaches to Children with Osteogenesis Imperfecta: A Ten-Year Experience."

In the same issue there is an article on "Functional and Psychosocial Assessment of Patients with Post-Sudeck Atrophy Amputation."

Community Mental Health Journal April 1993 contains an article and a response to "Detection of Substance use Disorders in Severely Mentally Ill Patients."

...and the response:

"Substance Abuse in Severely Mentally Ill Patients: Why is there a Problem?"

Volume 8, No. 2 Winter 1992 Careers and the Disabled features an article on the "ADA Update: How Will the Americans With Disabilities Act Affect Your Future?"

From the Harvard Medical School Newsletters:

Harvard Mental Health Letter, April 1993 Part II of "Self Help Groups."

Harvard Health Letter April 1993, Special Supplement: "A Guide to Hospice Care", and

"Steering Clear of Cataracts."

Harvard Heart Letter, April 1993 "More on Aspirin's Effects."

13 A Practical Guide To Today's Bonanza Of Underused High-Tech Hearing Products

Although the hearing industry is constantly working to develop new and better technology, a review of advanced products already in the marketplace reveals that many of the most important innovations of recent years have been largely ignored by dispensers who are unaware of their full benefits. The Journal's contributing editor, assisted by four other leading audiologists, offers a guide for dispensers to the still-untapped potential of today's futuristic hearing technology.

37 Application Of A Notch Filter To Reduce Acoustic Feedback

Suppressing acoustic feedback in a hearing aid without excessively reducing gain is a formidable challenge. The idea behind the notch filter is to reduce gain only around the frequency of the feedback. A study finds that this approach shows promise in helping wearers of ITE power hearing aids.

Jeremy Agnew

44 Viewpoint: Programmables Provide Better Hearing, So Why Are We Fitting So Few?

A dispensing audiologist with experience fitting several different kinds of programmable instruments estimates that 80% of patients would choose programmables if only dispensers gave them the chance.

COVER STORY

13 In Identifying Hearing Loss In Infants, Time Is Of The Essence

It is well established that the earlier in life a hearing loss is discovered, the more effective habilitation measures are likely to be and the better the child will learn to cope with his disability. However, there is no such consensus on the best strategy to achieve early detection of hearing impairment. An exploration of some of the technical, political, and economic issues involved in the quest to identify hearing loss during baby's first year

Donald Radcliffe

23 The Primary-Care Physician: Obstacle Or Opportunity In Hearing Health Care?

As the gatekeeper to the healthcare system, the primary-care physician (PCP) is ideally situated to screen patients for hearing loss and to guide them in finding hearing help. However, a recent survey found, many PCPs do not routinely test for hearing loss, and those who do refer relatively few patients to hearing professionals. Some strategies are proposed to help dispensers establish referral relationships with PCPs in their community

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased for approximately $15.00 per copy from the American Psychological Association, 1101 17th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWABulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWABulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographs, reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWABulletin.

Bits & Pieces

A Bi-Monthly Newsletter and Acquisitions List

MAY - JUNE, 1993

THE LIBRARY

In June, the Librarian attended the bi-monthly meeting of the Boston Biomedical Libraries Consortium at the Deaconess Hospital in Boston. The Library Director and Librarian are both members of this consortium which consists of local hospital libraries.

In addition to June Holt, Director of the MRC Library, Maya De, Librarian of the MRC Library, is now connected to the Central Office E-mail communications system.

Procedures for requesting literature searches and other library services are as follows:

Please telephone Maya De directly at 727-1140 for literature search requests, reference and information Question's. If Maya is not available, whoever takes the call will write down the request in detail, especially the date material is needed.

Please telephone Dave Cain directly also at 727-1140 for borrowing and/or photocopying of MRC Library materials including videos. Contact Dave for your inter-library loan needs also.

Maya De returned from a week in England this past May.

THE LITERATURE

The June, 1993 issue of American Journal of Psychiatry contains the article "Diabetes and Development of Tardive Kyskinesia."

The June/July, 1993 issue of the Journal of Learning Disabilities is devoted to Integrative Strategy Instruction. See table of contents attached.

The May, 1993 issue of Social Work has "Reasonable Efforts for Children with Disabilities: The Parents' Perspective."

Social Service Review, June, 1993, has an article on "Self-Help Groups and Human Service Organizations: An Interorganizational Perspective."

Two articles of note appear in the June, 1993 issue of Hospital and Community Psychiatry:

"The Case for a Services-Based Approach to Payment for Mental Illness Under National Health Care Reform"

"Ensuring Services for Persons with Chronic Mental Illness Under National Health Care Reform"

Archives of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, May, 1993, has an article on "Movement Energetics of Individuals with a History of Poliomyelitis."

The May, 1993 issue of American Journal of Mental Retardation has an article "Beneficial Effects of Exercise on Aerobic Capacity and Body Composition in Adults with Prader-Willi Syndrome."

Hospital and Community Psychiatry, May, 1993, has four articles on housing, supports and persons with mental illness:

"Housing and Supports for Persons with Mental Illness: Emerging Approaches to Research and Practice"

"An Overview of Surveys of Mental Health Consumers' Preferences for Housing and Support Services"

"Implementing Supported Housing in State and Local Mental Health Systems"

"The Psychiatrist's Role in Supported Housing"

An article of interest in The Hearing Journal, May, 1993, is "For Computer-Age Kids, Using Latest Hearing Technology Comes Naturally."

"Self-Help for Healthy Hearing...the Cardiovascular Factor" is addressed in SHHH Journal, May/June, 1993.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWA Bulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

THE LIBRARY

The Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission and the rehabilitation field across the nation lost a rehabilitation library information professional and founder/builder of the MRC Library, June C. Holt, Library Director, on September 8, 1993. June was a Boston native, attended Boston public schools and started working for the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation within the Massachusetts Department of Education in 1950. While working, she attended school and earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston State and a Masters degree in Library and Information Science from Simmons College in 1978.

June began the Library as a part of the MRC Research and Development Unit. Later in 1963, the Library had grown to be a separate entity of its own. The Library collection now includes 30,000 volumes of monographs and reports, 120 professional journals, films, videos and audios which provide information on disabilities, independent living, legal rights of people with disabilities, supported employment, transportation and all other aspects of rehabilitation. This unique resource serves the state, region and nation, providing information and materials to vocational rehabilitation counselors and administrators, other human service providers, family and friends of people with disabilities, and students and teachers at local universities.

During her career with the Commission, June was bestowed with many appreciation awards for her contribution in the rehabilitation information field. In 1975 she received the Commissioner's Distinguished Service Award. In 1987 she received the National Rehabilitation Association's Award and in 1992 she received an award from Boston University, Sargent College in recognition of "significant contribution to the development of the Department of Rehabilitation Counseling." To the last day of her life in September 1993, June was elected as first Trustee Emeritus by the Information Center for Individuals with Disabilities for her active interest and dedication to the Center. Also, June was a highly respected and admired member of the Boston Biomedical Library Consortium, Boston Group of Government Librarians, Special Libraries Association, National Rehabilitation Association, Board of Library Commissioners, Perkins School for the Blind and Access Center at the Boston Public Library.

June's greatest contribution in her forty years of service was the creation of the MRC Library. In honor of her memory, Commissioner Elmer C. Bartels named and dedicated the June C. Holt Library on September 16, 1993. Friends and colleagues of June shared their thoughts on the occasion. The bronze marker hangs on the wall of the June C. Holt Library proudly.

Since June, 1993, Maya De, Librarian, has taken charge of the MRC Library in the absence of the director who was ill. This meant switching to full-time instead of part-time duty to run the Library effectively. Maya is the Acting Library Director and will continue the mission of the June C. Holt Library, which is to serve as a unique resource for people with disabilities and rehabilitation professionals in and outside Massachusetts.

Maya has completed an extensive bibliography on Rehabilitation Technology and People with Disabilities. This 70 page bibliography is for sale to non-staff persons for $15.00. Please make checks payable to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and mail to the JCH Library.

BOOK REVIEW

Shapiro, Joseph P. No Pity: People with Disabilities Forging a New Civil Rights Movement. Times Books, 1993.

The ADA has had a significant impact on many people, not only those with disabilities but others also. However, the ADA didn't just happen suddenly. It is the result of many people's efforts over many years. This book describes the long history of this landmark legislation in terms of the people who helped it become law.

You will hear about disability rights advocate Judy Heumann, Evan Kemp, Jr. - one of President Bush's closest advisors on disability issues, and many others who guided this civil rights bill from the Congressional hearings to the actual signing by President Bush on July 26, 1990.

The author has written extensively on social policy issues for U.S. News & World Report. This book is well researched and documented. Mr. Shapiro spent five years on it, thanks to a grant from the Alicia Patterson Foundation. There are several chapters on other civil rights issues affecting people with disabilities such as total integration, self advocacy, better recognition of ability, not disability, etc.

After reading this book you will probably consider the people mentioned here as your friends.

"Being an artist is my occupation. I spend my time having lots of ideas and artist, like appreciating color essences, being sensitive and being persecuted too.

People usually think on the left side of their brain. They don't appreciate too much because their whole lives are centered on material things. An artist thinks a material thing is meaningless, except for its practical value. Artists are creative because they think on the right side of their brain. Colors can be more important to them than food. That's being an artist!"

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWA Bulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

A Bi-Monthly Newsletter and Acquisitions List

NOVEMBER-DECEMBER 1993

THE LIBRARY

Former Library Director, June C. Holt, was honored again by the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Association this past December. The Board of Directors of the Association voted unanimously to re-name the Association's Meritorious Award as the June C. Holt Meritorious Award in her memory.

In December, Maya De, the Acting Library Director, attended the Internet meeting at the Harvard Medical Library. According to Carol Tenepir of Library Journal, Internet is the second hottest topic for 1994, national information infrastructure being first. The Acting Library Director is exploring the possibilities of getting the JCH Library connected with the Internet network system.

The JCH Library no longer circulates texts and other publications to persons on the national and international mailing list. Publications sent out on loan have been lost or not returned. We regret this action but resources are too expensive for the Library to absorb the loss. To obtain copies of listed material we suggest trying public, medical, or academic libraries. If we can be of assistance about where to purchase certain publications, and the cost, call (617) 727-1140.

Face View with Spectrum

"Sometimes I just sit down and see what I come up with. I'm really questioning what's inside—to experience what's inside when I'm not feeling anything. As I draw and color, I start feeling things. Anything I'm feeling comes out in my pictures. I can feel angry feelings, sad feelings, happy feelings, and fear that were trapped in my art.

After I do a picture I study it to see what it means to me and what trapped feelings I got out from the past that I didn't remember. I feel a little bit better because I got the feelings out. I feel relieved and clean inside."

FEATURES

22 The ADA and Vocational Education

The new law preventing discrimination against people with disabilities will have far-reaching effects throughout the nation. Here's a look at the impact on education.

Patricia Morrissey

25 No Funding? No Support? No Problem!

NCRVE researchers have found that the best programs for students with special needs have a "don't take no" attitude. Here's how they're succeeding.

Carolyn Maddy-Bernstein and Zipura Burac Matias

28 All Things Being Equal

Bringing students with disabilities into an electronics classroom has prompted many changes, mostly good.

Rich Dubrul

30 On Their Own

Some fundamentals for preparing disabled students for the workforce.

Gary Meers

32 It Takes Two

Special educators and vocational teachers typically haven't had much to do with each other. That's not the case in Wisconsin.

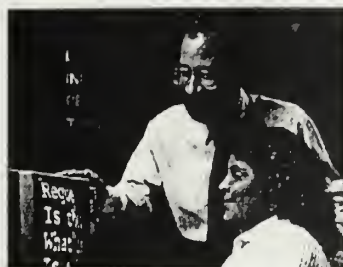

Richard Lombard and Michael Hazelkorn

34 Regional Spotlight

Here's a look at the role of regions in AVA, from conferences to awards.

45 AVA Trade Show

Your guide to the nearly 300 vendors that will display their wares at the annual Trade Show during the convention.

22 The Role of EAPs in Occupational Stress Claim Risk Management

The rise in the number of stress-related workers' compensation claims is causing employers to pursue preemptive means of controlling costs. Among the most effective—a properly focused EAP.

Edith L. Jardine, CEAP, and Richard Lieberman, PhD

26 EAPs and the Importance of a Full Prevention-Focused Approach

Trying to reach employee's in the early stages of a problem? Facing limited resources? Trying to increase visibility among senior managers? Try a full prevention-focused approach.

Cindy Yoder-Brown, MSW, LCSW

28 EAP from the Emerald Isle

Workplace stress. Balancing work and family obligations. Drug testing. Program evaluation. As these workshop topics from the 8th Annual Irish National Conference on Employee Assistance Programmes prove, the issues facing today's EAPs are truly universal.

Brian Sheehan

30 Service Outranks Cost in Selecting Treatment Providers

A survey of referral professionals from the New York City area shows that the cost of treatment ranks far behind other considerations, including good communication, staff professionalism, and a 12-step treatment approach.

Walter F. Scanlon, MBA, CEAP, NCAC

32 The Desserts of Wellness: A Wellness Assessment for EAP Professionals

Call them the three realms of EAP—client care, company care, and self care. In meeting the demands of the first two, the third and most important realm—self care—is often overlooked. Find a comfortable seat, take a deep breath, and consider the following advice for feeling and being the best you can be.

Support means something very different to a woman than to a man. Also, women take up less space than men during meetings, and men are quick to interrupt and interject. For the latest on communication styles between the sexes, read on.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWA Bulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

A Bi-Monthly Newsletter and Acquisitions List

MARCH-APRIL 1994

THE LIBRARY

In April, Maya De, the Acting Director attended the Info-Fair '94 at the Harvard Medical Library. The all day session on Internet was quite interesting and comprehensive. It included lectures and demonstrations, discussion groups, vendor exhibits and so on. The Internet has been around for more than 20 years, accessible only to its limited user groups. Recently it became a mass communication tool utilized by more than 20 million people around the world. This number is growing by the millions every day.

The Internet is a computerized network of networks which distributes electronic mail worldwide and allows file transfer using FTP (File Transfer Protocol). In addition, Internet provides access to numerous academic and non-academic information resources. Topics of interest for rehabilitation professionals would be easy to access. Library catalogs, bulletin boards, online discussion groups, research institutions, electronic journals, full text documents and articles, newsletters, and more are just several keystrokes away.

JCH Library is now connected to the Internet network system. Fine tunings with Internet search components like Listserv, Archie, and Gopher will go on for the next few months but the Library is ready for basic communication via Internet. If you are on the system, send your literature search questions or any other questions directly to the Acting Director, at her

BOOK REVIEW by Dave Cain

Bradford, Tom. "Say That Again, Please!" Insights in Dealing with a Hearing Loss. Thomas H. Bradford, Dallas, Texas 1991.

Despite an early hearing loss the author received both a B.S. and M.B.A. degree with honors from Babson College, Wellesley, Mass. in 1972.

There have been countless books on deafness but what makes this different are the insights by Mr. Bradford. He speaks in non-medical terms giving the reader a real understanding of what deafness means to him and others he has talked to.

This book is divided into 3 sections; the first, mostly autobiographical. The second one is devoted entirely to comments of parents and teachers in response to situational questions posed by the author. The third section contains observations of hearing impaired students talking about their own experiences and what they would do in hypothetical situations.

Mr. Bradford is candid about such things as lip reading: it doesn't work; the use of sign language: very effective; and hearing aids: let the child decide about wearing it or not. He speaks freely about embarrassing situations he has been in and offers suggestions based on his own experiences as a teacher of deaf students. The author does not present this disability as a serious liability to any human activity. He firmly believes that with enough drive, patience and time almost anything is possible.

In This Issue

Assaults, threats, incidents of harassment, homicide—in an average working day, three Americans leave for work and never return home, and countless more become victims of post-incident stress.

Truth is, more employers turn to their EAP than any other resource when it comes to preventing workplace violence. This issue of EAP Digest is full of useful information and resources to aid your efforts of a safe, secure, and productive workplace.

Features18 Workplace Violence: Why It Happens and What to Do About It

Of the four categories of workplace violence—Robbery and Other Commercial Crimes, Domestic or Misdirected Affection, Terrorism and Hate Crimes, and Employer-directed—three can be responded to using behavior risk management and the author's 12-point plan.

Dennis L. Johnson, PhD

23 Violence in the Workplace: The EAP Perspective

Education and training programs, participation on Threat Assessment Teams, assessment and counseling, early intervention—EAP professionals are lending their expertise—and Core Technology—to address workplace violence. Here's how.

Dale A. Masi, DSW

25 Survey Reveals Extent of Workplace Violence

Last year, the Society for Human Resource Management surveyed members on the extent of violence in the workplace. Here's some of what they found.

26 Helping Employees Recover from the Trauma of Workplace Violence

In the aftermath of a traumatic event, early intervention and assistance can mean the difference between higher stress claims, absenteeism and turnover and a healthier, fuller functioning workforce.

Kenneth L. Wolf, PhD, Mary Leonhardi, MSW, Doug Polancih, and Marilyn Knight

30 The U.S. Postal Service EAP: Then and Now

What began as an occupational alcoholism program in the late '60s has grown to become the largest, full-service EAP network in the world. The EAP Manager for the U.S. Postal Service describes the program, including the unique relationship between internal EAP Coordinators and external EAP Counselors.

John G. Kurutz, PhD

Next EAP Digest to feature the introduction of our new magazine supplement, Behavior Risk Management, in In-House, page 6. It's the EAP profession's next logical step—integrating the EAP Core Technology across all organizational systems. And it's a familiar face bringing it to you—Rudy M. Yandrick, former editor of the EAPA Exchange.

Workplace Violence: Veterans as Scapegoats, in Close-up, page 42. Despite words to the contrary, U.S. veterans are not the one's responsible for the wave of violence in our nation's workplaces. Instead, a close look at the facts proves they are only scapegoats, and the record must be set straight.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036 Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWAA Bulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWAA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWAA Bulletin.

BITS & PIECES

A Quarterly Newsletter and Acquisitions List

JULY - SEPTEMBER 1994

THE LIBRARY

THE LITERATURE

The June C. Holt Library is going through some organizational changes. A lack of staffing in the Library makes these changes imperative. Current staff is comprised of Maya De, Library Director and one staff person. The frequency of the Bits & Pieces newsletter and acquisition list has been changed to a quarterly publication. In 1995, four issues will be published in January, April, July, and October.

The JCH Library will continue to provide all services to MRC counselors, agency administrators, and all other staff as before. The Library will be open five days a week for all users. Borrowing privileges will continue for non-MRC users on the Library premises only. Mailing of the books and other publications will be discontinued for non-MRC users. Bits and Pieces subscribers will continue to receive all privileges, except borrowing of books by mail.

The JCH Library is planning a "JCH Library Day" celebration some time during the month of October. A specific date and list of events will be announced and posted later in the month. Call the Library for information after September 30, 1994.

Two agency staff have been published in Rehabilitation Journals recently. Deputy Commissioner John A. Chappell, Jr. has written an article entitled "The Whole is Greater than the Sum of its Parts" in American Rehabilitation, Spring 1994 issue. Debra Kamen, Director, SHIP, co-authored an article on "Selected States' Public Policy Responses to Traumatic Brain Injury" in the June 1994 issue of The Journal of Head Trauma Rehabilitation. See table of contents attached.

The Library has a copy of the special advertising section of the May 30, 1994 issue of Business Week published in association with the National Organization on Disability entitled "The New Competitive Advantage: Expanding the Participation of People with Disabilities in the American Workforce".

"The Vocational Rehabilitation of People with Severe Mental Illness: Issues and Myths," written by Professor William Anthony, appears in Innovations and Research, Vol. 3, No. 2, 1994.

In the April-June 1994 issue of Disability and Rehabilitation, there is "Differences in Job Placements between Men and Women with Mental Retardation."

The June 1994 issue of Hospital and Community Psychiatry contains two articles of note:

Defining Subgroups of Dual Diagnosis Patients for Service Planning

Case Manager Ratings of the Clinical Status of Dually Diagnosed Outpatients

An article "Dual Diagnosis: Prevalence of Psychiatric Disorders in a Large State Residential Facility for Individuals with Mental Retardation" is in the May 1994 copy of the American Journal on Mental Retardation.

"Ten-Year Outcome of Tardive Dyskinesia" is included in the June 1994 issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Two articles of interest in the July 1994 issue of Paraplegia News:

Limited Lives, Livelihoods, and Lifestyles

Aging and SCI: Caring for Caregivers and Staying Active

July/August 1994 issue of SHHH Journal has an article on "Getting Beyond Hearing Loss: A Guide for Families."

Community Mental Health Journal, August 1994 contains an article and a response to "The Role of Case Management Within a Community Support System: Partnership with Psychosocial Rehabilitation."

...and the response:

"Case Management and Psychosocial Rehabilitation: Can they be Synergistic?"

Two articles of note appear in the Disability and Society, Vol. 9, No. 2, 1994:

Disability and Employment: Towards an Understanding of Discourse and Policy

Women with Turner's Syndrome: Helping Them Reach Their Full Potential

Sign Language Studies, Summer 1994 has an article, comments, and response to comments on "How is Deaf Culture? Toward a Revised Notion of a Fundamental Concept."

"The National Parent Network on Disabilities" is in the July 1994 issue of Exceptional Parent.

Regarding Tourette Syndrome, two significant articles appear in the Journal of Developmental and Physical Disabilities, September, 1994:

Tourette Syndrome: A Developmental Psychobiologic View

A Review of the Relationship Between Gilles De La Tourette Syndrome and Speech and Language

New Mobility, July/August 1994 examines "Chair and Driver...the Revolution is Real"

The American Journal of Psychiatry, September 1994 has three articles about borderline personality disorder:

Risk Factors for Suicidal Behavior in Borderline Personality Disorder

Dissociative Phenomena in Women with Borderline Personality Disorder

Borderline Personality Disorder in Adolescents: Ubiquitous or Specific?

SPECIAL ISSUES

See table of contents attached for the five special issues:

July, 1994, issue of the Journal of Back and Musculoskeletal Rehabilitation is devoted to "The Hip".

Caring Magazine, August 1994, deals with "Alzheimer's Disease."

Rehabilitation Education, Vol. 8, No. 1, 1994, discusses "ADA" in relation to education, employment and training programs.

Summer, 1994, issue of Sexuality and Disability deals with "Women with Disabilities: Reproduction and Motherhood."

Work, July 1994, issue is devoted to "Ergonomics".

SPECIAL SECTIONS

Exceptional Parent, June 1994 has five articles on "communications, telecommunications, internet and more."

Hospital and Community Psychiatry, September 1994 has a special section on "Health Care Reform".

July 1994 issue of the Journal of Counseling Psychology devotes a section on "The Therapeutic Relationship."

Mainstream, August 1994 has three articles on "Home Modifications."

September 1994 issue of the Paraplegia News has a special section on "Home Sweet Home".

Alzheimer's Disease: The Long Goodbye 14

by Heather Dittbrenner

Alzheimer's disease is the fourth leading cause of death in adults in the US. What exactly is Alzheimer's and how does it affect individuals?

Apolipoprotein E4: A Genetic Risk Factor for Late-onset Alzheimer's Disease 24

by Ann M. Saunders, PhD, and Allen D. Roses, MD

Researchers have made a breakthrough in the genetic analysis of Alzheimer's disease that may lead to better understanding and possible treatments.

Policy Issues Surrounding Special Care Units 30

by Stephen McConnell

Over the past 10 years, specialized care for Alzheimer's disease patients has grown rapidly. Is it really specialized, or is it simply a marketing ploy?

Medicare Benefits for Alzheimer's Patients 33

by Karen Beckman Pace, RN

Many Alzheimer's patients are not eligible for Medicare home care benefits. The biggest impediment to qualifying is the need for skilled services.

Effects of an Intervention Program on Dementia Patients and Their Caregivers 34

by Rita Gbatak, PhD

Can a comprehensive caregiver training program improve caregiver coping skills and patient outcomes?

Alzheimer's Disease: Research Turned into Reality 40

by Paddy Bowen and Linda LeDuc

Most home care workers feel the need for more knowledge about Alzheimer's disease. One program addresses this need with a seven-module training course.

The Center of Caring: Adult Day Care and the VNA 42

by Claire L. O'Brien, MSW

One adult day care center makes the most of community resources, including the local VNA, to provide an alternative to caregiver burnout and patient institutionalization.

Senior Place at the VNA 44

by Jamie Brenner Gutner

The key to a successful adult day care program is individualized client care that takes into consideration the needs of the clients' support systems.

Heroes of Health Care: A Window on Caregiver Burden 48

In March of this year several older Americans told congressional leaders about the devastating effect Alzheimer's disease can have on families.

Dealing with Depression and Anger: Reactions of Family Caregivers 52

by Marilyn R. Winston, PhD

The burdens of caring for a family member with Alzheimer's disease can lead to anger, guilt, loneliness, and depression for caregivers. How can home care workers support the families and ease their anxieties?

42

"Keeping abreast of the trends for the future in long-term care, especially the impact of any health reform measures, is a main task of any adult day care administrator."

—Claire L. O'Brien, MSW

52

"Frequently caregivers of AD patients feel a loss of control over their lives. They face an intrinsic dilemma as they helplessly watch their loved one deteriorate."

—Marilynn R. Winston, PhD

Luverne's Story

by Milam McGraw Propst

This case study illustrates how one woman has learned to cope with caring for her 81-year-old mother, who suffers from Alzheimer's disease.

Managing an Effective Alzheimer's Family Support Group

by Ann Pendleton Denton, RNC

One home care agency formed a support group for families dealing with Alzheimer's disease. Their eventual success points to the need for such community support.

Patience Is a Virtue

by Desirée LeMaire and Rebecca Lacy

Nutrition and safety regarding wandering are two aspects of intervention that family members learn while caring for Alzheimer's patients.

Silent Love

by Nancy Johnson, RN

A registered nurse's experience caring for her mother with Alzheimer's disease has influenced her work in an Alzheimer's facility.

Networks for Home Care Support: The ComputerLink Project

by Patricia Flatley Brennan, PhD, and Shirley M. Moore, PhD

A computer network provides Alzheimer's caregivers with information and support to make informed decisions and to feel connected to others in similar circumstances.

Nursing Role in Advance Proxy Planning For Alzheimer Patients

by Ann C. Hurley, RN, Robert Bottino, RN, and Ladislav Volicer, MD

How does advance proxy planning protect Alzheimer's patients' self-determination when they are no longer able to make care decisions?

Dealing with Death at Work

'Take some time off.' 'Send a plant and a card from all of us.' The American workplace, where productivity and profit are paramount, is not known for its sensitivity toward grieving employees. Yet that can be changed. Here's how.

Judy Churchill, PhD, CEAP

Six Situations Leading to Workers' Compensation Stress Claims

A dysfunctional management style, scapegoating, sexual harassment, traumatic injury—EAP professionals are in a unique position to identify stressful situations in the workplace and take corrective action before a stress claim is filed.

Dolores O. Morse, PhD

Working with Mandated Clients

Among all clients presenting to the EAP, mandated substance abuse clients are among the most difficult. Although their jobs may be at stake, their skills at covering facts and feelings are often highly developed, yet not impossible to assess, refer, and treat.

Head Trauma: Strategies for Educational Reintegration and Clinical Management of Memory Problems
Reviewed by Bruce Caplan

CALL FOR MATERIALS

The Journal of Head Trauma Rehabilitation is expanding in 1995 and will be published six times per year. This will allow JHTR to include a larger number of original research submissions. Published articles will encompass the entire spectrum of care for persons with head trauma. Strong preference will be given to empirical studies with strong methodology. All articles will be anonymously PEER-REVIEWED, as has been the norm for all submissions. Instructions for authors can be obtained from Aspen Publishers. Three copies of the manuscript should be submitted. All submissions should be unpublished work that is not being considered for publication elsewhere. For additional information, please contact Mitchell Rosenthal, PhD, Editor, Journal of Head Trauma Rehabilitation, Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan, 261 Mack Boulevard, Detroit, MI 48201.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Dr. Darrell Coffey, Editor, VEWA Bulletin, School of Education and Human Services, University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wisconsin 54751, 715/232-1370. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

OCTOBER-DECEMBER 1994

THE LIBRARY

The JCH Library Open House on October 31, 1994 was a grand success! More than 50 people visited the Library including people from MRC area offices. Visitors picked their favorite information and literature. Internet access demonstration was quite popular. Maya De, the Library Director, ran several sessions of the Internet access demonstration to accommodate all the net trackers.

Right after the open house, the Library went through a staffing crisis. The Library Director was the only person to attend to all the duties of the Library. The only support staff person was out for major surgery and no help was available till the last week of November. Pat Brooks from the Special Projects Unit started helping in the Library for 4 hours a week and Diane Canada for 2 days a week. Mid-October through mid-December happens to be one of the Library's busiest times. Boston University and the University of Massachusetts students visited the Library regularly to do their papers on rehabilitation courses. MRC counselors' literature search requests continued to pour in and some of them were due yesterday. Though the Library Director tried to meet all deadlines, some services had to be curtailed. The Library was closed on Fridays. One good thing was clear through this crisis: how much this Library is needed and valued by MRC users and outside users!

Maya De, the Library Director has been the only professional Librarian in the JCH Library since June, 1993. The work shared by the former Director and Maya De is done by Maya alone. Along with her administrative responsibilities like planning, programming, budgeting, supervising, etc. literature searches for MRC counselors has been one of her primary concerns. But with a changed situation, response time must be a little bit longer. Please plan ahead and send in your literature search requests to Maya directly by mail, fax (617-727-1354), e-mail or internet address: mde@world.std.com In the information age, telephone seems to be slower than other modes of communication. Minimum turnaround time for a literature search is 3-4 weeks. Please indicate the date information is needed by.

Internet World, a new journal, has been added to the collection. The table of contents of the February, 1995 issue is in this edition of Bits & Pieces.

Did George Washington Really
Chop the Cherry Tree Down

"Many people are really lonely in this life. And many people who suffer from mental illness are unable to connect with anyone, so many find a creative means to express themselves. That is why people who suffer from mental illness always have a message in their work. My work gives me a tremendous amount of self-esteem. Every time I finish a painting I feel a tremendous amount of joy, and that's a very healthy way to feel."

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $15.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Ron Spitznagel, University of Florida, Dept. of Rehabilitation Counseling, Box 100175, Health Science Center, Gainesville, FL 32610-0175. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

THE LIBRARY

Maya De, the Library Director was recently invited to Washington, D.C. for an assignment by the Department of Education related to Rehabilitation Research.

The Library Director also learned recently that the Encyclopedia of Disability and Rehabilitation will be published by the fall of 1995. A long wait by rehab. specialists, library and information specialists and consumers is coming to an end. The idea was first conceived by the present Library Director in 1987. Many people participated in the project. It started with the leadership of the former Library Director, June C. Holt, with the support of Commissioner Elmer Bartels and an advisory committee of rehab. specialists and consumers who discussed the feasibility of the plan. Once the need was established, conceptualization of the content and format began. Both Librarians participated in the advisory committee's work. In 1989 when the Encyclopedia of Disability and Rehabilitation took a more definite shape, Dr. Arthur Dell Orto, Head of the Department of Rehabilitation Counseling, Sargent College, Boston University, was contacted for the editorship of the encyclopedia. He graciously took on the project. An enormous amount of work went into this project which received extraordinary support from many of the stalwarts in the rehab. profession and the staff at MacMillan Reference. Thanks to Arthur Dell Orto, Commissioner Elmer Bartels, advisory committee members and the Library Directors, an idea has become a reality!

Features

Password: Curb Cuts 12

As computers, telephones, radio and video converge into the "Information Superhighway," there is no guarantee of access for people with disabilities. Fortunately, somebody's working on curb cuts.

By Douglas Lathrop

There are lots of different ways to access a computer and, as they say, jack into the Net. Here's a look.

Flying Do's & Don'ts 22

Here are some tips to protect your power chair when you take it on an airline trip.

By Bob Segalman

C'mon Down to Visit! 24

Pick your way among the stalagmites and stalactites in underground caverns. People with disabilities are doing just that. And they don't have rocks in their heads.

By Julie K. Blevins

If You're Going 26

Plan ahead and call ahead — and be sure to take along a jacket because it gets chilly down there.

Crip Flicks 29

Now you can get low-fat popcorn at the movies, but Hollywood keeps giving us "Dumb and Dumber" images of people with disabilities. Then somebody like Billy Golfus comes along.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $20.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Ron Spitznagel, University of Florida, Dept. of Rehabilitation Counseling, Box 100175, Health Science Center, Gainesville, FL 32610-0175. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.

THE LIBRARY

THE LITERATURE

University of Massachusetts
Depository Copy

Maya De, the Library Director reports that if you have heard the rumors regarding the June C. Holt Library, yes, they are true. The June C. Holt Library will be transferred away from the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission.

At present the site of the Library's future home is being finalized. Call Human Resource Development (727-6936) after September 1, for updated information.

In the meantime, the JCH Library will discontinue all borrowing privileges for all users starting August 1, 1995. Library materials can be used on the Library premises only. The Library has a new acquisitions display area where new books will be displayed. MRC staff and other users are encouraged to visit the Library to see the new books. Duplicate issues of journals and old reference books are displayed on a separate table for give-away. Pick and choose what you want. Journal article requests from the newsletter will be honored through the month of August, 1995.

The transfer to a College Library will mean continuation of and probable better access and growth for the June C. Holt Memorial Library.

A national database of Resources on Spinal Cord Injury has recently been revised and updated. The database contains information on over 500 videos, pamphlets, booklets and manuals, addressing 12 major subject areas related to spinal cord injury-such as coping with SCI, bowel and bladder management, recreational activities, sexuality, employment, accessibility and home modifications.

A free printed retrieval, limited to two subject areas, may be requested free of charge. A compendium of all materials listed in the database is available for purchase. For further information call or write:

Two articles of note in the June 1995 issue of the Journal of Employment Counseling:

"Career Maturity in Young Adults with Learning Disabilities: What Employment Counselors Should Know"

"The Effects of Job Search Behavior and Vocational Self-Concept Crystallization on Job Acquisition: Is There an Interaction?"

Social Security Bulletin, Spring 1995, has an article on "The Effect of Vocational Rehabilitation and Work Incentives on Helping the Disabled—Worker Beneficiary Back to Work."

Two important articles in Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Spring 1995:

"Work Jobs: Marco Polo was...who have the right training"

"The Contingent Work Force: People who work part-time...employers and the workers."

"Becoming Whole: Healing from the Inside Out" is the cover story in the June 1995 issue of New Mobility.

JADARA, Spring 1995, has "Job Coaching: A Means to Reduce Unemployment and Underemployment in the Deaf Community"

SHHH Journal, May/June 1995, has two articles of note:

"Hearing Aids and the Consumer: An Overview...Wisdom"

"It's Our Hearing Loss: What Families Need to Know...Loss"

The Hearing Journal, April 1995, discusses "Do Hearing Aids Work in Noise? That's A Simple Question With No Easy Answer"

Two articles on facilitated communication in the Spring 1995 issue of The Journal of the Association for Persons with Severe Handicaps:

"How Teachers Confirm the Authorship of Facilitated Communication: A Portfolio Approach"

"Reading Between the Lines: A Case Study on Facilitated Communication"

Three articles of interest in the Spring 1995 issue of Careers and the Disabled:

"Enabling You To Work: The Job Accommodation Network Helps...Before"

"Marketing Your Skills: Learn...Attitude"

"Volunteering For Skills: Launch Your...Helping Others"

Monthly Labor Review, April 1995 has "Employee Benefits for Older Workers: Some Plans...Activity"

Mainstream, May 1995, discusses "Backlash! The Rising Assault on the ADA and Disability Rights...Status in Society?"

Wolf Wolfenberger's article "Of 'Normalization', Lifestyles, the Special Olympics, Deinstitutionalization, Mainstreaming, Integration, and Cabbages and Kings" appears in Mental Retardation, April 1995.

SPECIAL ISSUES

See table of contents attached for the special issues:

Caring Magazine, May 1995, deals with "High-Tech Home Care."

"Though still in its infancy, high tech is expected to grow rapidly, as ever-evolving technologies simplify the safe administration of increasingly more sophisticated therapies at home."
 —Warren Balinsky, PhD
- High-tech Home Care 7
by Warren Balinski, PhD
 Home care owes much of its rapid growth to advances in medical technology—sophisticated medical therapies once restricted to the hospital can now be provided in the patient's home. What exactly is high-tech home care, and what are the implications for payors and providers?
- The Medicare Reimbursement Puzzle for Home Drug Infusion Therapy 10
by Karen Beckman Pace, MSN
 Providers need a clear understanding of Medicare coverage for home drug infusion before undertaking this relatively high-cost service.
- Vascular Access Device Choices for Home Care Patients 14
by Marlene M. Steinhiser, MSN
 Home care professionals need to consider several factors before choosing the most appropriate access device for each patient.
- Patient Selection Criteria for Home IV Therapies: From A to Z 18
by Danette Meredith, RN
 Home intravenous therapy is a fast-growing industry, but it may not be for everyone.
- Patient Education in High-tech Home Care 22
by Lisa A. Gorski, MS
 Patients need to help in their own care; home care professionals can teach them if they are ready to learn. What techniques can professionals use best?
- 22
"The education of patients regarding their health care is doubtless the most important intervention in home care nursing."
 —Lisa A. Gorski, MS
- The Risks of Using Complex Technology in Home Care 30
by George R. Smith, MA
 Although miracles of technology and medicine have enabled patients to stay home rather than in an institution, these high-tech wonders also pose risks for which home care providers should prepare.
- High-tech, High-touch Perinatal Home Care 36
by Nancy L.F. Dahlberg, MS, Debra Blazek, BSN, Bonnie Wikoff, BSN, Beverly L. Tuckwell, MA, and Mary Koloroutis, MS
 High-risk pregnancies pose certain challenges that may be overcome with high-tech home care, but paying attention to the patient as well as the machines ensures successful relations all around.
- Infusion Techniques for Perinatal Home Care 40
by Diane Gorgal Eaton, RN
 Maternal and fetal assessment are essential in managing home infusion therapies now available at home for various conditions attendant to pregnancy.

COVER STORY:

18 The Enemy Within

—Michael Barrier

Workplace violence poses a greater challenge to small employers than their larger counterparts. Lack of resources, including time, staffing, and funds, can prevent small employers from taking exotic prevention measures. But there are steps a small employer can take to ensure a safer workplace.

24 USPS Unveils Six Strategies to Prevent Workplace Violence

At its second Forum on Workplace Violence in as many years, the United States Postal Service unveiled its six strategies for preventing workplace violence. As with similar programs in other organizations, the USPS EAP plays a key role.

29 Behavioral Case Management in HMOs

The relationship between HMOs and EAPs has been tense at best. To make it win-win, HMOs will have to adjust their sights as health care moves into the 'Age of Integration.' A key component of that integration—behavioral case management.

David R. Selden, ACSW, LICSW

33 The Dilemma of Making Referrals: Clinical Judgment, Personal Bias, and Pragmatic Reality

Referring a client to care—it's the most important yet intangible aspect of EAP work. How much of the decision is clinical and how much an assumption of client/therapist fit? What role do the EAP professional's—and client's—personal biases play? Read on.

Fran Deats, MS, CEAP

38 Case Management of the Bipolar Worker

Also known as manic-depression, long-term case management is critical for employees with bipolar illness. The cyclical nature of the illness—the manic highs and depressive lows—requires more than a passing knowledge of how bipolar illness can manifest in the workplace.

Cover: Benjamin Wainwright, 5, practices signing with mother Tammy. According to his mom, Benjamin has worked hard to learn to communicate with younger brother Byron, 2, who has mental retardation and uses sign language. Benjamin helps Byron practice the signs he learns during therapy sessions at the Kennedy Krieger Institute in Baltimore, Maryland, and makes sure sister Janicka, 4, and dad Benjamin are learning the signs as well. Byron's speech-language pathologist, Judi Rosenstein, was one of several Kennedy Krieger staff members contributing to this special issue on communication.

Corrections: In Volume 73, November/December 1994 JCD, in the archival feature, incorrect names were listed for some ACA division treasurers. The correct names are John A. Bernham, AMHCA; Rita Meyers, ARCA; Sydney J. Menard, Jr., ASERVIC; and Brian L. Kawaler, ASCA. Also, Thomas M. Fujimura is the president of the Indiana Association for Counseling and Development, not Suzanne L. Oakes.

For the same issue, in the article "Preventing Depression Among Young Adolescents: Preliminary Process Results of a Psycho-Educational Intervention Program," the total number of adolescents in the first cohort as described in the third line of the participants section (p. 146) should be 151, not 145 as reported in the published article.

COVER STORY

◀ BECOMING WHOLE:

Healing from the Inside Out

What do you do when medicine is out of ideas for putting you back together, and your body is still a cranky stranger? We asked some people who ruminate on such things—CAROLYN VASH, RICHARD HOLICKY, KEN KEYES, RICHARD BRUNO and CARLOS AMANTEA—and they came up with some insightful answers. Cover illustration by Maja Rode

34

FEATURES

Accessible Stadiums and Sweet Baseball Memories

Baseball's back, and so are ROBERT SAMUELS' cherished memories of jewel-box stadiums, family sharing and the Great American Pastime.

18

Have Sidecar, Will Travel

More biker madness from JEFF SMITH, who tells you how to build a lean, mean machine capable of gifting you with the open road—and the possibility of yet another disabling accident.

For Love or Money

Big liability settlements, youth and vulnerability prove a deadly combination in LEE SLATKIN'S agonizing story of two disabled Florida millionaires who came to terrible ends they didn't deserve.

28

Disabled Gays and Lesbians: Coming Out to What?

VICTORIA MIDDGLEY tracks people who have left the closet—only to find homophobia from the disability community and ableist discrimination within gay and lesbian culture.

45

Vans: Full-Size or Mini?

RICHARD HOLICKY looks at the long and the short of the van market and concludes that knowing what you want your van to do is your best defense against expensive mistakes. Also: a gallery of lifts and ramps.

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Bulletin is published quarterly in order to provide practitioners, consumers, and educators with an understanding of information in vocational assessment and therapeutic adjustment services. The Bulletin concentrates mostly upon the methodology, program innovations, and instrumentation development within the areas of vocational evaluation and work adjustment.

Potential authors should not hesitate to submit an article on the grounds that they do not know how to write for formal publications. The content of an article is much more important than writing style. Editorial assistance will be provided to clarify and correct inconsistencies in style which could lead to misinterpretation by the readership. However, the content should be well organized so that the development of ideas is logical and the suggested conclusions are clear. Vocabulary should be simple and non-technical, except when technical language is essential to explain the topic at hand.

All manuscripts must be typewritten and double-spaced, with margins of not less than one inch. The title of the manuscript should be at the top of the first page, with the name of the author or authors immediately beneath the title. Four copies of the manuscript and four copies of its abstract (approximately 150 words) should be submitted, along with a brief statement of the author's name and address, organizational affiliation, degrees received, pertinent experience, and general interest in the field of vocational evaluation or adjustment services.

Authors should follow the reference style used in this issue of the Bulletin which closely follows practices suggested in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association. This manual may be purchased, for approximately $20.00 per copy, from the American Psychological Association, 1300 17th Street N.W., Washington D.C.

20036. Footnotes should be avoided when possible and should be used only to further explain the text of the article. The origin of ideas should be acknowledged by including their source in the references.

Manuscripts should be submitted directly to: Ron Spitznagel, University of Florida, Dept. of Rehabilitation Counseling, Box 100175, Health Science Center, Gainesville, FL 32610-0175. Manuscripts will be acknowledged upon receipt. Following a preliminary review by the editors, they will be sent to three members of the editorial board or selected guest reviewers.

Upon review by the editor and the editorial board, manuscripts will be either accepted, rejected, or returned to the author for suggested revision. Approximately two or three months may elapse between the acknowledgment of receipt of a manuscript and notification of its disposition. The editor will submit to the author for approval any substantial changes which arise in editing. Acceptable articles are usually published in the order of their receipt.

It is a condition of publication that manuscripts submitted to the VEWA Bulletin have not been published and will not be simultaneously submitted or published elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the authors agree that the copyright for their article is transferred to the publisher if and when the article is accepted for publication. The copyright covers the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article, without permission in writing from the copyright holder. Rights to reproduce and distribute include reprints, photographic reproduction, microform, or any other means including electronic. Permission to use or distribute articles should be requested from the Editor of the VEWA Bulletin.
